

Fresh and Dried Vegetables

The climate and topography of Thailand are favourable for cultivation of vegetables and fruits; therefore, farming has long been the main occupation of Thai people. Fresh vegetables are among Thailand's economic plants which are farmed and exported in quantity. They are also main ingredients in cooking and food industry.

Currently vegetables and fruits are processed using various technologies to add value and prolong the shelf life, and to create new products as more options for consumers, e.g. drying and powdering. Fresh and dried products are major ingredients in the manufacturing of food such as snacks, baked foods, beverages, as well as convenience, canned, and frozen foods.
